BACK ISSUES

The Buzzer has been published since June 2, 1916! So in this section we mine our back issues for nuggets of transit history. Huzzah!

1962 The March 9, 1962 Buzzer remarked on the convenience and magic of the new automated dishwashers.

A magician who could clean a large pile of dirty dishes by merely snapping his fingers would be regarded as a miracle man.

Yet that's virtually the same stunt that's performed every day by many home-makers. Instead of snapping their fingers, they just flick the switches on their automatic dishwashers. The savings in most households is about 10.5 hours of monotonous work each week. That's equal to one full workday — time that can be put to better use.

Our TransLink Twitter service is now permanent!

Great news —our TransLink Twitter pilot is now a permanent service!

For anyone who doesn't know, the Twitter pilot was a test project to deliver ramped up customer service through the TransLink Twitter account (twitter.com/translink).

Since November 1, 2010, call centre workleaders have sent out system updates and answered customer questions from 6:30 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. every day—giving us 7,000+ followers, a huge number of customer compliments, and increased morale at our call centre!

So we're happy to announce that the Twitter pilot has now gained permanent funding, allowing a call centre workleader to staff our Twitter service every day from now on!

Many thanks to all the staff members involved who made this project such a huge success and such a valuable tool for our customers. And another huge thanks to all the customers who interact with us online, especially those who sent in such supportive notes for the pilot. We received more than a hundred formal commendations, and countless supportive tweets!

For more stats from the project, search for "Twitter" at buzzer.translink.ca. And go to twitter.com/translink to follow us!

Yay! I really, really appreciate the twitter feed from you guys. It's made my commute so much better & I hope it sticks around.
